Come Out and Play at “Make Music–Liberty” on June 21&22

LIBERTY, Mo - Tune your instruments and get ready to make a joyful noise at Make Music-Liberty! Make Music Day is an international celebration of music on the Summer Solstice, the longest day of the year, June 21. Since that falls on a Friday this year, Make Music-Liberty is planning a two-day music experience.

You're invited to take part in the festivities to help show off our local talent and join the public celebration. The event is open to all ages, all genres of music and all levels of musical ability, so whether you're in a band, a solo artist, a child, a senior, a saxophonist or a drummer, there's a spot for you to perform!

When: Friday, June 21 from 4-9 p.m. and Saturday, June 22 from 7 a.m. - 4 p.m.

Where: Participating venues are located all around Liberty. The Historic Downtown Business District would be a good place to start, especially on Saturday morning with performances in conjunction with the Farmers' Market.

How to Sign Up: Make Music-Liberty invites musicians and host locations to register to participate online at www.makemusicaliberty.org. Venues and performers can search for and select each other during the registration and "matching" process.

About Make Music Day

Originating in France in 1982 as the Fête de la Musique, Make Music Day is now an international event. On June 21, Liberty will join more than 800 cities worldwide, including 33 U.S. cities, as we mark the beginning of summer with Make Music-Liberty, a citywide festival of music.

Throughout the day, you may hear music being performed on a sidewalk, a residential porch, in a parking lot, in one of Liberty's city parks, at a public place of business, or wherever people feel like playing or listening, as the city comes together in a celebration of music and community.
